- 3 次の英文は、高校1年生のユメが英語の授業で発表したものです。これを読んで、次の問いに答えなさい。

I am Yume. I'm fifteen years old. I like dancing and I'm in the dance club. Do you have a dream? I'm doing my best for my dream now. 【あ】

A month ago, our English teacher, Mr. Hiraoka, gave us some homework. We had to write about our dreams in English, but I didn't have a dream. I was not able to write anything. The next day, I asked my friend Riko about her dream. She said, "My parents are doctors. They help sick people every day. I am very *proud of them, so I want to be a doctor like them." I said to her, "That's so nice. I don't know about my dream. What should I write about?" I began to think about it very hard. 【い】

After that, I asked another friend, Saori, "What is your dream?" She answered, "I want to work at a *nursery school. I like children. ① (to / take / I / of / like / would / care / them)." I said, "You have a nice dream. I can't find my dream." Saori asked me, "What do you like? What are you interested in?" I thought about dancing.

When I was eating dinner with my family, I said to them, "I have to write about my dream in English, but I can't write about it. What should I do?" My mother told me, "Yume, you can dance very well. You can be a dancer or a dance *instructor. You are also good at English. You love English. How about being an English teacher? You have been good at teaching your friends since you were a child." I said, "An instructor? A teacher? *No way! I love English and dancing, and I am good at teaching my friends, but it is A for me to be a teacher or an instructor. I can't speak in front of many people. ② I don't think I can do that." She said to me, "Don't think like that! Having a dream and doing your best is important. Find one thing you can do now, and do your best!" I said to myself, "What should I do for my future?" 【う】

A few days later, my friends started to study harder than before. I was moved by their action. I still didn't know what my dream was, but I decided to challenge myself. I decided to try to speak in front of people more. I will *take part in the presentation contest at my school next month. 【え】

注) proud : 誇って

No way : とんでもない

nursery school : 保育園

take part in : に参加する

instructor : 指導者
